Tab II

- The Short Term and Bond Portfolio is of high credit quality and invested in certificates of deposit, Florida Prime (SBA), FL PALM, Florida Fit, and bank accounts.
- The Short Term and Bond Portfolio ended the fiscal year with a yield to maturity at cost of 0.34%, 15 basis points (0.15%) higher than the benchmark yield of 0.19%.
- The Long Term Fund Portfolio is of high credit quality and invested in U.S. Treasury, federal agency/GSE, federal agency/CMO, mortgage-backed, supranational, municipal, asset-backed, and corporate note securities.
- The Long Term Fund Portfolio's annual total return performance of 3.88% outperformed the benchmark performance of 3.58% by 0.30%.
- The Multi-Asset Class Management Portfolio was created during the 4th Quarter of 2018. Calendar year-to-date performance of the portfolio is 3.94%, outperforming the benchmark's performance of 3.91%.
- The Federal Reserve (Fed) continued to play a large role in supporting financial market stability. The central bank re-affirmed its ongoing support of many bond market sectors through its continuing purchase and liquidity programs, and it extended the expiration date of many of its lending facilities. The Fed also extended its forward guidance regarding zero short-term interest rates through 2023.
- The U.S. Treasury yield curve remained low and range-bound after plummeting to all-time lows in the March. All maturities ended the third quarter within 0.05% of where they began. Yields on shorter-term maturities drifted lower as the lack of new fiscal stimulus resulted in lighter Treasury debt issuance. Longer-dated yields inched only slightly higher, nudged primarily by the Fed's new inflation targeting policy. As a result, Treasury index returns were muted for the most recent quarter end.
- Due to the economic uncertainties surrounding the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, we intend on structuring portfolio duration to be neutral relative to their respective benchmarks.

QUARTERLY MARKET SUMMARY

THE ECONOMY

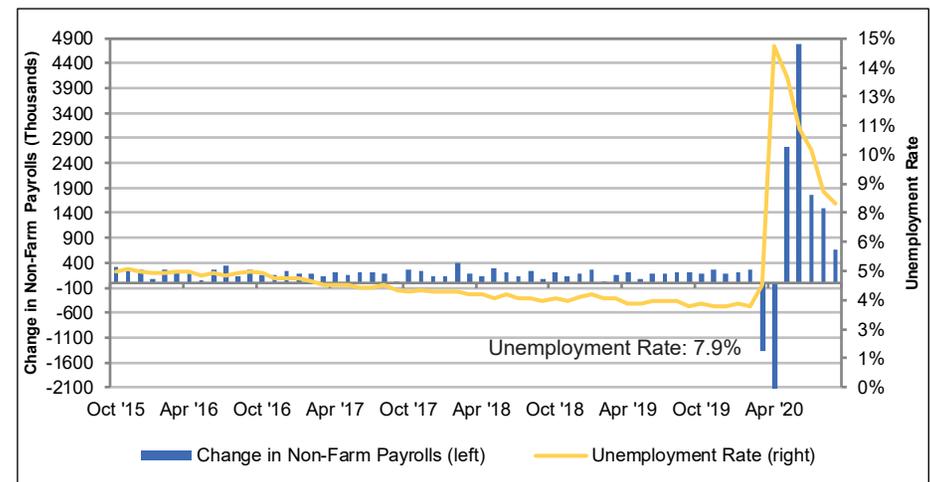

- The COVID-19 pandemic continues to dominate the news and strongly influence the path of economic recovery. September 28 marked the grim milestone of one million deaths worldwide attributed to the virus. We will likely continue to experience significant disruptions in economic activity until a vaccine is widely available.
- The revised estimate of second-quarter gross domestic product (GDP) announced on September 30 reflected a slightly smaller contraction than initially announced in July. Based on the revision, economic activity dropped by -31.4% from the previous quarter by an annualized rate. Third-quarter GDP is likely to reflect a sharp increase in the range of 20-30%.
- The overall employment situation has improved rapidly over the months since the peak in unemployment in April. The unemployment rate declined from 14.7% in April to 7.9% in September. The speed of job recovery from now on will likely depend on the evolution of the virus and policymakers' response. Factors include the degree of social distancing measures and the extent to which policymakers continue to provide income support to unemployed workers.
- Equity markets focused on mostly favorable data throughout the summer months. Macro data improved as multiple drug companies claimed to have fast-tracked versions of a vaccine in the works, earnings looked to have bottomed and another fiscal stimulus package appeared forthcoming. The S&P 500 Index (S&P) lost some steam during September after school openings caused numerous COVID-19 hot spots across the country and medical experts indicated that a vaccine would not likely be available until summer 2021. The fiscal stimulus deal was less likely, or at least delayed.
- Corporate earnings are expected to fall. According to FactSet's earnings insight, the S&P's expected gains for the third quarter are higher today than at the start of the quarter. Despite this increase, the index is still likely to report the second-largest year-over-year decline in earnings over the past 10 years, mainly due to the negative impact of COVID-19 on numerous industries. Companies have not regained lost sales.

WHAT WE'RE WATCHING

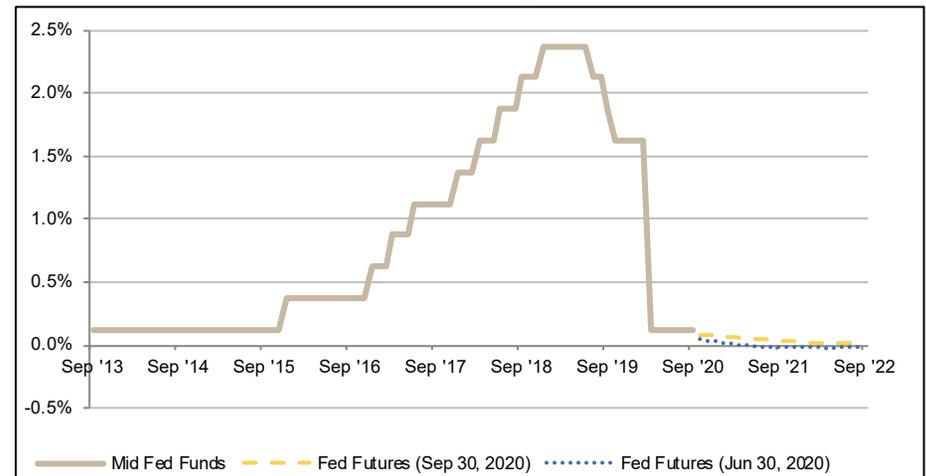

- Domestically, the beginning of the summer started with a sharp rise in the number of people hospitalized with COVID-19, but since late July, that number has declined sharply. Hospitalizations had been very low for most of the summer in Europe and the UK, but have started to rise since people went on holiday during August. Increased movement and lower restrictions have prompted concerns that hospitalizations and deaths could increase more meaningfully as temperatures fall in the coming months.
- A return to normalcy must include a vaccine, and as such, its development has been vigilantly observed. Though it has been discovered that some drugs speed up recovery times or decrease the chance of death, researchers have not found a cure or prevention for the disease. Vaccine researchers have been working with their country regulators at a blistering pace, and most timelines put the widespread availability of a vaccine in the first half of 2021. This timeframe is just a fraction of the usual timeframe for vaccine development.
- The U.S. is less than one month away from its presidential election. Both major party candidates are touting their ability to lead the country out of the pandemic and ensuing economic situation. The next presidential term will be focused on rebuilding the economy while taking on immense federal debt and running budget deficits. Incumbent presidents have typically won reelection unless there was a recession during their term, but current circumstances are far from typical, casting doubt on an outcome.
- Fiscal and monetary policies have played a vital role in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. The Central Banks' monetary policy response to the economic crisis has included lowering interest rates to at or below zero for some countries while governments provide additional fiscal stimulus. Globally this helped stem a deeper recession, but with the possible consequence of lower near-term growth rates because the increase in debt levels may constrain budgets.
- The end of the year-long transition period for the UK to leave the EU (Brexit) is looming at year-end. During the 11-month long transition period, the UK still follows EU rules. It continues to pay into the EU budget despite no longer having voting rights in the EU's political institutions. As of January 1, 2021, the UK will automatically drop out of the EU's primary trading arrangements.

- Within the S&P, 10 of the 11 sectors earned positive returns, with Consumer Discretionary (+15.1%), Materials (+13.3%), Industrials (+12.5%) and Information Technology (+12.0%) leading the way. Energy (-19.7%) was the worst-performing sector due to pandemic induced lower demand for fuel.
- Value stocks, as represented by the Russell 1000 Value Index, returned 5.6%, lagging growth stocks, as represented by the Russell 1000 Growth Index, which returned 13.2%. QUARTERLY MARKET SUMMARY

FIXED INCOME

- The U.S. bond market, as represented by the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate (Aggregate) Index, returned 0.6%.
- Long-term rates rose slightly compared to the previous quarter-end, with much of the movement taking place in August. The 5-year Treasury decreased by one basis point (bp) while the 10-year and 30-year rates increased by three and five bps, respectively. Much of the Aggregate return came from spread compression in corporate and mortgage credit.
- Corporate credit had another solid quarter on the back of liquidity support and bond-buying programs from the Federal Reserve. July was a strong month, but the rallies faded towards quarter-end. Overall, investment-grade (IG) corporate spreads declined during the quarter. The Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Corporate Index gained 1.5%, despite negative returns in August and September. High yield bonds, as represented by the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Corporate High Yield (HY) Index, had stronger performance, gaining 4.6% with positive returns in two out of three months. The strongest returns were in the lowest ratings by quality, where the yield advantage partially offset a rise in rates.
- The fixed-rate mortgage market, as measured by the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Mortgage-Backed Securities (MBS) Index, had a muted return of just 0.1%. Meanwhile, the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Agency CMBS Index (measuring commercial MBS) gained 0.5%. At the same time, non-index mezzanine tranches of CMBS remained stressed with office and retail shutdowns and hotels facing lower demand.
- EM USD sovereign bonds, as represented by the JP Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, gained 2.3% as some of the top-weighted index countries performed well (Mexico, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia).

QUARTERLY MARKET SUMMARY

Investment Strategy Overview

For the Fourth Quarter 2020

Asset Class	Our Investment Outlook	Comments
U.S. EQUITIES		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Improving economic fundamentals pointing to recovery in economic activity leads us to slightly overweight equities. The Fed's accommodative stance and continued expectation of low interest rates remain a tailwind to equity valuations. We expect equities to outperform fixed income in the near term. Amidst continued re-opening efforts and a bounce back in consumer activity, earnings and profit margins are expected to recover strongly looking ahead. Small-caps are expected to recover better as the economic recovery continues. We remain cautious about the high debt levels and lower quality companies within this space.
Large-Caps
Mid-Caps
Small-Caps
NON-U.S. EQUITIES		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> International equities continue to trade at a discount to U.S. equities. Improving economic fundamentals as economies emerge from pandemic related lockdowns leads to a slight overweight. Most EM economies, with lower debt levels and cheaper valuations, are recovering faster, following China's faster recovery. Except for Brazil and India, where COVID-19 continues to negatively impact the economy, most other EM countries, with lower debt levels and cheaper relative valuations, are recovering faster. International small caps are expected to perform as the economic recovery continues. We remain cautious about the lower quality companies that could be subject to cash flow disruptions.
Developed Markets
Emerging Markets
International Small-Caps
FIXED INCOME		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Continued coordinated accommodative monetary policies globally has been tailwind to fixed income returns. Looking ahead, the low level of interest rates will limit returns relative to equities. Corporate spreads have narrowed substantially in Q2 leading us to remain neutral. We continue to monitor downgrades and defaults within the corporate bond space while opportunistically allocating to areas of dislocation within spread sectors.
Long Duration, Interest-Rate-Sensitive Sectors
Credit-Sensitive Sectors
ALTERNATIVES		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Attractive valuations, low level of interest rates and stabilizing rental income are positives. The possibility of defaults in the future makes us cautious. Improved credit market conditions and easy access to capital markets are a positive while the impact of business closures and rising bankruptcies needs to be assessed closely. Private debt strategies are expected to be impacted by cash flow uncertainty as businesses adjust to lack of demand in the short-term, while easy access to capital is a positive. Select hedge fund strategies managed by talented managers may provide some benefit in the current market environment of increased volatility. We remain cautious on the overall hedge fund universe.

QUARTERLY MARKET SUMMARY

Factors to Consider Over the Next 6-12 Months

For the Fourth Quarter 2020

Monetary Policy:  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Fed's decision to hold short-term interest rates near zero until inflation stays above a 2% target, provides further support to risk-assets. Globally, all major central banks continue on the path of accommodative monetary policy. 	Economic Growth:  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> In the U.S., improving fundamentals recently point to a recovery from the lows of April. Slow and gradual recovery leads to improvement in manufacturing and services. Global growth expectations have improved for 2021 as economies continue to re-open following the pandemic related shutdown. 	Fiscal Stimulus:  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> CARES Act stimulus has lapsed at a time when there is no consensus on composition of further stimulus. Possibility of another round of stimulus remains uncertain. Stimulus focused on infrastructure spending should be a positive.
COVID-19 Containment:  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Concerns around the rise of a second wave of infections remain a focal point for economic recovery in the fall. Progress on vaccine-development is a positive while the timing remains uncertain. 	Consumer Confidence (U.S.):  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Labor market conditions have improved from the historic lows but the pace of improvement has slowed. Reopening of states and a strong housing market have been positive, while a lack of further stimulus weighs on consumers. 	Inflation (U.S.):  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Range-bound inflation remains, but concerns are rising that inflation could increase as latent demand hits the economy post the relaxation of social distancing efforts.
Corporate Fundamentals:  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Earnings visibility has improved, with earnings expected to recover strongly in 2021. Second wave of COVID-19 cases in the fall might weigh on expectations. Credit markets have stabilized, however, a rise in downgrades/defaults needs to be monitored. 	Valuations:  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Equity market valuations look less attractive given the strong rebound but the low level of rates continues to be a tailwind. The Fed's actions that provide support to certain spread sectors is a tailwind to fixed income assets. 	Political Risks:  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Upcoming U.S. elections could cause policy uncertainty, especially as the focus to reopen the economy continues. Rising tensions in U.S. and China relations adds to the political uncertainty.
