Algae Bloom Remediation Workshop

May 21-22, 2019 (Tues. & Wed.)

Broward County Library Downtown - Auditorium
100. S. Andrews Ave, Ft. Lauderdale 33001

The algae bloom situation is affecting tourism, fishing, real estate and local economies. While algae bloom research, testing and monitoring is ongoing within the State of Florida, collaboration and open communication on fixing the existing algae bloom and HAB problems need to be addressed. National Algae Association, is the first non-profit algae association to focus on education, production and algae bloom remediation in the world, made up of commercially-minded algae researchers, producers as well as algae bloom remediation technology experts and equipment companies in the US and throughout the world, would like to extend an invitation to your organization to attend or become a sponsor for our Algae Bloom Workshop in Ft. Lauderdale, May 21-22.

The National Algae Association has invited commercially-minded algae bloom researchers, remediation technology and equipment companies to discuss differences between algae blooms created by phosphorous and nitrogen as well as toxic hazardous algae blooms (HAB's) and educate attendees about potential algae bloom remediation technologies and solutions proven outside the lab are scalable and have a low CAPEX. The response has been overwhelmingly positive.

Algae Bloom Remediation Workshop

May 21-22, 2019 (Tues. & Wed.)

Broward County Library Downtown - Auditorium
100. S. Andrews Ave, Ft. Lauderdale 33001

The algae bloom situation is affecting tourism, fishing, real estate and local economies. While algae bloom research, testing and monitoring is ongoing within the State of Florida, collaboration and open communication on fixing the existing algae bloom and HAB problems need to be addressed. National Algae Association, is the first non-profit algae association to focus on education, production and algae bloom remediation in the world, made up of commercially-minded algae researchers, producers as well as algae bloom remediation technology experts and equipment companies in the US and throughout the world, would like to extend an invitation to your organization to attend or become a sponsor for our Algae Bloom Workshop in Ft. Lauderdale, May 21-22.

The National Algae Association has invited commercially-minded algae bloom researchers, remediation technology and equipment companies to discuss differences between algae blooms created by phosphorous and nitrogen as well as toxic hazardous algae blooms (HAB's) and educate attendees about potential algae bloom remediation technologies and solutions proven outside the lab are scalable and have a low CAPEX. The response has been overwhelmingly positive.
